WORKSHOP OVERVIEW

British Columbia is experiencing a skills shortage unlike any we've seen before and this is creating new and better OPTIONS for job seekers. This year's BC Labour Year-in-Review Workshop will explore the long-term impact of the skills shortage, trends in hybrid employment and the jobs most in demand in the coming year. The following is a list of topics we will address in the workshop:

- Growth and outlook of the skills shortage in BC
- Occupations and education paths with the best outlook
- BRAND NEW 2021 CENSUS DATA providing detailed LMI analysis on the community level
- Supports and research into under-represented groups in the labour market including women, youth, Indigenous Canadians, those with disabilities and immigrants
- Changing workplace practices: how employers are responding to the skills shortage
- Review of the most important labour market stories and government announcements in 2022
- Overview of key labour market research, reports and labour market tools released during 2022

We're returning with in-person workshops in eight different communities around the province as well as one online workshop. All workshops will take place from 9:30 to 3:30 with a one hour break for lunch.
